

1ST MEDITERRANEAN CONGRESS OF ANTIAGING MEDICINE

13-14 APRIL 2019

Palm Beach Hotel, Larnaca, Cyprus

The health of older people involves a multidisciplinary approach in order to offer effective treatments against age-related diseases. The conference is compact, comprehensive and practical, involving both basic science and clinical therapies. Lectures and seminars will be delivered by world-class academics, and by clinicians of European prestige. It will be attended by scientists in the biology of ageing as well as clinicians, nurses, carers, health professionals and others with interest in applied, effective interventions which may help reduce the impact of ageing. We expect wide media coverage reaching beyond Cyprus in countries such as Russia, Israel, Middle East and mainland Europe.
